Family and Child's Welfare Centre
Director Rita Bratėnaitė

• Budget enterprise Klaipėda Family and Child's Welfare Centre works with the families that are included in the list of social risk families by the Children's Rights Protection Service. These families have children under 18 and need social services due to different problems.

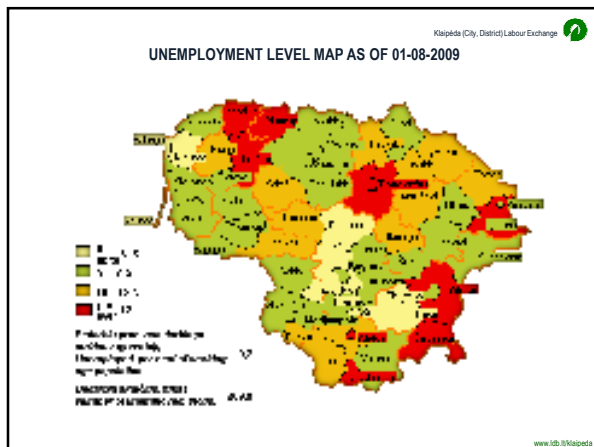

Upon receipt of information about the family from the Children's Rights Protection Services, the family is assessed and, if found that the social risk family has members - victims of human trafficking, non-governmental organizations that specialize in dealing with this problem are addressed. In this case, social care services and, if the need arises, also social custody services (i.e. placement of children in the unit of short-term social custody and crisis overcoming) to the family are provided based on the teamwork principle.

The main goal on the Centre - to assist families in resolving their social problems, so that the children would be guaranteed the proper conditions to grow and develop, therefore all governmental and non governmental institutions and organizations are involved into the network of social support to families. They exchange information, coordinate actions.
